Monte Carlo

Let your imagination go wild! Put on the personality to fit your mood at the festive Monte Carlo Nite Saturday, Feb. 5 with the help of whimsical 'tatoos' designed and executed by Artist Kathie McCollough. Colorful black, white and orange butterfly is modeled by Calene Fenolio of Pleasanton. The tattoo booth set up by the Valley Volunteer Bureau is just one of 25 game and prize booths organized by community service clubs at Pleasanton's biggest benefit. Admission to the event hosted by the Pleasanton Juniors at the Exhibition Hall of the Alameda County Fairgrounds is $3 per person and includes a starter packet of 'funny money' to lavish on casino games. Refreshments and entertainment of all kinds are non-stop from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. See Page 6 for details. (Photo by Jean McKenna).

Water—where we get it, why we have enough

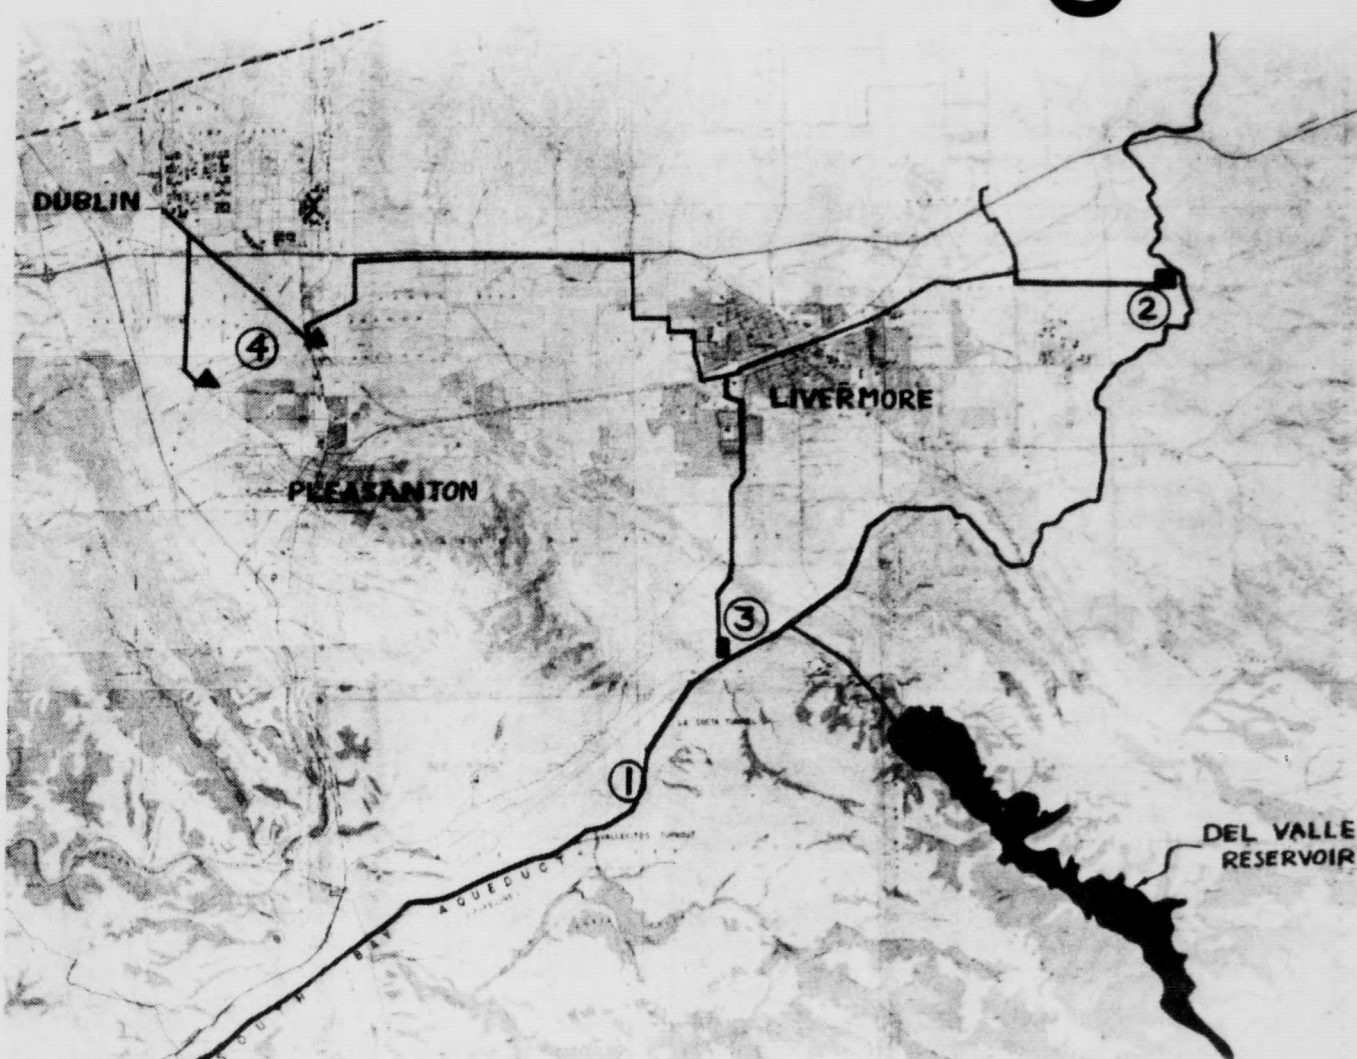

Once considered an endless resource, water supply is now being given weighty consideration by politicians, developers and consumers alike.

The Valley has an adequate supply of water at least until spring although conservation measures would extend that guarantee, says Mun Mar, general manager for the Zone 7 water management district.

The current drought, predicted to continue for at least the next 30 days, has caused a critical water supply problem in some areas of the state. But the Valley's 1 per cent partnership in the State Water Project has prevented forced rationing, dry wells and brown lawns.

Oroville Dam, located 30 miles northeast of Yuba City, is the state's main water supply reserve for the State Water Project. Water flows from the dam through channels and accumulates in the Clifton Court Forebay, above the Tracy pumping plant.

The natural flow continues to Bethany Forebay about five miles

water from the line, as does the Del Valle treatment plant (3). Well fields (4) on Hopyard Road, not now used for supply, can store fresh aqueduct water.

southwest. From there, it is pumped 600 feet up to the South Bay Aqueduct, and reaches the Valley through gravity flow pipelines.

It takes six hours for water from the aqueduct to reach the Patterson Pass treatment plant at Greenville Road near the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

The allotted amount of water is siphoned off at this point in the line and treated. It can be pumped out as needed, or stored for later use. The Patterson Pass plant can treat up to 10 million gallons per day (mgd), and store 2 mgd of "clear" water.

Water in the pipeline continues its southwesterly trek until reaching a tie-in export line leading to Del Valle Reservoir. Quantities can be diverted to the reservoir in winter months when demand is traditionally low, and be released for consumption in summer when demand peaks.

A short distance later the aqueduct line meets up with the Del Valle treatment plant, in which water can be treated and stored or released. Del Valle can currently treat 9 mgd and store 3 mgd, but expansion plans call for 18 mgd of treatment immediately and 27 mgd treatment by 1998.

Aqueduct water continues southward, providing partial water service to Fremont and Santa Clara Valley.

Wells near the Pleasanton Sports Park on Hopyard Road hold a reserve of lower quality groundwater. The wells are currently pumped only one hour each per week to maintain the machinery in working order.

The Lawrence Livermore Lab, Vallecitos Nuclear Center and Sunol's 450 residents are served by water supplied by the San Francisco Water Company. It pumps water from the Hetch Hetchy aqueduct located in Yosemite Park.

Cal students size up the best bargain

SAN RAMON — If you ask Jim Spurlin where the "Ralph Naders of tomorrow are," he'll tell you they're in his consumer math class at California High School.

What started as a semi-routine project last fall came out as a full-blown consumer report that could prove an invaluable guide to thousands of Valley residents.

It is so detailed and thorough, in fact, that Spurlin and his young charges are considering putting the handsomely-bound 38-page report into mass volume.

"We have had a consumer math class before," explained Spurlin initially, "but it was very math-oriented."

Says Michelle Stuh, a ninth grader who worked with the grocery stores segment of the report, "We had no idea it (the report) would turn out like this."

"We broke up into groups like fast foods so we could get into it more," explains Jeff Silva, an enthused and articulate 11th grader comments.

"This was an attempt to interrelate what we're learning in class to the real world," further explains Bob Giannini, mathematics department chairman.

The class initially broke into groups to price various items, and compare those prices at stores throughout the Valley and Concord, Walnut Creek, and Danville.

Along the way they gathered impressions — how clerks and managers at the various stores reacted to them, their cooperation or lack of same — and then launched into compiling and analysis of the data they gathered.

Members of the groups and the businesses they checked were as follows:

FAST FOOD RESTAURANTS — Mark Guzman, Tony Quilici, Mike Scott, Russ Stewart, and Mike Ward.

GROCERY STORES — Kevin Bringham, Vickie Bringham, Arda Robles, Marie Scoma, Jeff Silva, and Michelle Stuh.

CLOTHING — Daraan DeBow and Mona DeBow.

AUDIO EQUIPMENT — Debbie Falce, Eric Hubacher, Brenda McDermitt, and Dan Nelson.

AUTOMOBILE CARE ITEMS — Theresa Montoya, Bobbie Payne, and Frank Wilder.

Some of the more interesting discoveries and data recorded came from the fast food restaurants group

Cut off Lizzie's water, he says

LIVERMORE — Water problems may not be as bad in this community as in other parts of California, but Planning Commissioner Jim Sadler wants the city to show its sympathy by turning off the faucet to Lizzie Fountain for a while.

Even when Community Development Director Manny Gorland told him there was no waste in the local fountain at First Street and Livermore Avenue because the water is recirculated, Sadler pushed for action.

"We realize the water is recirculated," he said. "So is every other fountain in the area."

Sadler said his wife urged the action, noting that it was "not a matter of turning it off to save water but to show people driving through Livermore that we care about the problems of other areas. That's a state highway through town and if it seems we don't care, people in other areas might not care if we have a similar problem."

He said maintenance requires emptying and refilling "whenever the kids throw bubbles in it."

Sadler asked planning commission concurrence Tuesday on a request the city council consider more stringent conservation efforts.

"It's the whole thing, not just water," he said. "This summer we're going to be in a heap of trouble."

Public Works Director Dan Lee noted the city has already cut back the amount of watering on golf course greens. He said no real assessment of the drought's effect on Livermore has been made by the state and isn't expected for a few months.

"They laughed at Noah," said Sadler. "Two or three months from now we may not even have our gas, which is going to the east. It is a planning matter."

Commission Chairwoman Brenda Souza noted such advice to the council "wouldn't be harmful" and the planners approved the action 4-1. Dissenting was Candy Simonen who disagreed it was a planning function to make such a recommendation.

August suit

Verdict may be appealed

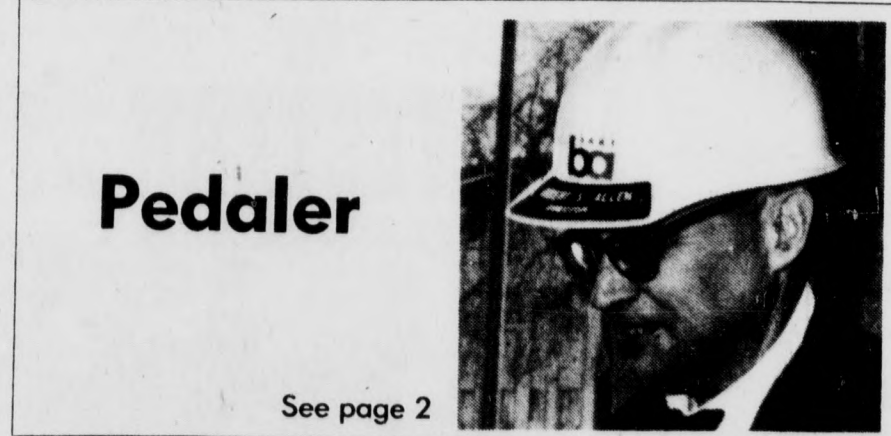

DANVILLE — Officials of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District will meet with their attorney Monday to discuss whether to appeal a $25,000 judgment against them in the case of a demoted administrator.

A county Superior Court jury this week awarded $25,000 in damages to Boyer August, former San Ramon High School dean of boys, reassigned nearly two years ago to a teaching position.

August sued district superintendent Allan Petersdorf, former high school principal James Cozens, school trustees Joseph DeHope, Virginia Jouris and Harold Zuckerman, and former trustees Edward Merrill and Robert Arrigoni.

He said he was demoted after speaking out against the district, and contended this was a violation of his constitutional rights to free speech.

Because this was a civil action, the school district could not be named as a defendant, Petersdorf said.

Pedaler

He said if the judgment is upheld, the district's insurance company would get the claim. Petersdorf added, however, that "there are some options available to us which we may follow."

Most of the $25,000 judgment will go to August's attorney, Michael McCabe of Concord, who has spent two years on the case.

Later this month, McCabe will ask the court to award attorney's fees in addition to the $25,000 judgment.

He will also appeal a January court ruling that denied August's request to be reinstated as dean of boys.

August took a $4,500 cut in pay when he was demoted, McCabe said.

Gassed out

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said California has begun shipping some of the 10 billion cubic feet of natural gas it will loan to weather-stricken midwestern and eastern states this month.

The Democratic governor said in a statement that further shipments will begin within 24 hours.

The first word of the arrangement came late Wednesday when President Carter signed the Emergency Natural Gas Act and mentioned Brown had told him about the loan.

Brown said two special emergency shipments, each of 2 million cubic feet a day, were being sent immediately to Buffalo, N.Y., and Philadelphia, Pa., and surrounding areas.

His office says these two cities "have been virtually paralyzed by natural gas shortages."

Shipments to Buffalo, arranged by Southern California Gas Co., will provide emergency heating and utility services for about 400,000 homes in that area, Brown's office said.

The other shipment, also arranged by Southern California Gas Co., goes to a transmission company serving Philadelphia and surrounding areas, his office said.

Pacific Gas & Electric will provide gas to several hard-hit areas including several southeastern states, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and South Carolina, and parts of the midwest and northeast, including New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Ohio.

Brown credited quick passage of Carter's emergency gas allocation legislation as a factor helping expedite transfer of natural gas supplies to areas of greatest need.

Fair board convenes

The Alameda County Fair Association's monthly Board of Directors meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 8 at the Fair administration offices.

A finance committee meeting will meet at 7 p.m., one hour preceding the regular board meeting.

Meet Stark

Congressman Pete Stark will hold constituent's meetings throughout Alameda County Saturday, including a 2:30 p.m. stop at the Livermore Airport Administration Building.

Residents may stop in to discuss "anything that's on your mind."

Advice to workers

City management personnel from Livermore and Pleasanton will get some advice today from a nationally recognized management consultant.

Dr. John Van De Water, of Canoga Park, will discuss employee relations in day to day working relationships, administration of the labor contract, responsibilities of the employer, union and employee. Case problems and analysis will be presented.

His talk, "Labor-Management Relations: Adversary or Participatory," will be given at the Kaiser Industries Auditorium from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

VCSD on trial

A trial involving the Valley Community Services District (VCSD) and Gilbert M. Labrucherie Associates, Inc. has been underway since last Tuesday at the Superior Court in Oakland.

Labrucherie, a contractor, is suing VCSD for an alleged breach of contract regarding the Valley Community Swim Center at Dublin High School.

"They say we prepared plans and specifications incorrectly that resulted in their having to do extra work for which they weren't paid," said Paul Ryan, VCSD general manager.

Labrucherie lists the alleged breach of contract as the first cause of action. They are asking $225,000 in damages.

There are numerous other causes of action listed by Labrucherie. One of them requests $125,000 in damages from VCSD.

VCSD has filed cross complaints. This trial has been pending since June 1974. It is being tried by Judge Robert Bostick.

Schools dip thermostats

Four valley school districts have turned thermostats down to 65 degrees, as of Wednesday, and the San Ramon school district has at least temporarily discontinued use of automatic sprinklers and two swimming pools in the district in line with a Public Utilities Commission directive.

Districts setting temperature gauges at 65 include San Ramon, Amador, Pleasanton, and Murray. A spokesman in the Livermore Unified School District offices said Superintendent Leo Croce was preparing a memo in light of the directive that would be sent out to principals Monday.

In the meantime, the thermostats at the Amador-Pleasanton, Livermore and San Ramon central offices were turned downward as another energy crunch enveloped drought-stricken California.

Turning off of the pool heater at San Ramon High School means suspension of not only daily swimming classes, but the boys and girls swim teams, and an AAU team that uses the pool.

The other pool affected is at California High School. Murray will curtail its sprinkling systems while San Ramon will go to strictly hand-watering of district facilities. Sprinklers will be turned on for two minutes each week to clear pipes.

Principals in the San Ramon district have also been directed to turn thermostats down to 55 degrees in unoccupied rooms, and turn lights off when rooms are not in use.

A check of Pleasanton city offices indicated no specific directive had been issued to turn down thermostats to 65 degrees.

Husband of slain woman faces trial

LIVERMORE — The husband of a woman shot and killed by a Highway Patrol officer last September goes on trial next month on plea-bargained misdemeanor charges stemming from the incident.

George Smith, Jr., 24, of Long Beach, was arrested on charges of possessing marijuana, cocaine and stolen property and carrying a concealed and loaded weapon in his car.

His wife, Patricia, was driving when the CHP stopped the car on I-580 near Hopyard Rd. She allegedly reached for a gun in the glove compartment and CHP officer Curtis Engbersen reportedly shot her.

Judge Mark Eaton cleared the way for a March 18 pre-trial hearing and March 22 jury trial, after ruling a search warrant on the car was valid and there was valid cause for arrest. He denied a defense Miranda warning motion.

Eaton, on Jan. 24 reduced three of the felony charges to misdemeanor status.

The case has been marked by dozens of court appearances, with motions for discovery of certain facts by both defense and prosecution.

In other court action: — Dennis Warren May, 19, of 703 North Livermore Ave., Livermore, was scheduled to plea on charges of cultivating marijuana in a closet and throwing things at police officers Jan. 25.

Police had been called Jan. 25 when Eva Jean Armstrong, 18, asked for protection while moving out of May's apartment.

During the incident, police said the closet with the reported marijuana plant was open to view.

— Jimmy Cantrell, 26, of San Francisco, pleaded guilty to reduced misdemeanor charges of stealing two $900 electric typewriters from Dublin High School June 18 last year.

Cantrell had been arrested in San Francisco, allegedly during another burglary, and police reported finding the typewriters in his possession.

A trail of blood — the result of a broken door window at the school led police to a fingerprint.

— Homer Payton Jr., 35, and Stephen Anthony Oliver, 21, both of Fresno, pleaded not guilty to charges they and Steve Coleman, 22, brought marijuana, PCP and drug paraphernalia into Santa Rita prison Jan. 28.

Coleman is scheduled to plea Feb. 9.

Deputies said the trio parked in a restricted area of the prison and were asked to move several times before a search of the car was made.

Ten hypodermic syringes were reportedly found, along with an empty bottle of gin, packages of marijuana and PCP, and a rolled marijuana cigarette in Payton's pocket.

— Frank Bannino Felix pleaded not guilty to charges of passing a $168 bad check to Larry Cox of Montclair House and Garden Shop, Livermore, July 12. A Feb. 14 court appearance will include scheduling for a preliminary hearing.

— Charles Johnson, was scheduled for a Feb. 14 preliminary hearing on charges he escaped from Santa Rita prison Jan. 26. Deputies said he hopped on a work crew truck leaving the compound when the driver noticed he had one passenger too many.

Among the operations checked were McDonald's in Dublin, Jack-in-the-Box, Carl Jr.'s, Foster Freeze, Taco Bell, Orange Julius, three delicatessens, four pizza, deli sandwiches, and hot dogs.

Hamburgers were taste-tested at four locations, after checking "weight of trimmings," "weight of meat in burger," "total weight of burger," and burger price.

Also checked at the four operations — McDonald's, Jack-in-the-Box, Carl Jr.'s, and Foster Freeze — were price of french fries, weight of fries (6 ounces at Foster Freeze to 2½ ounces at Jack-in-the-Box), bev-

Carl Jr.'s was rated as "excellent."

Allen receives his key in exchange for $5 check

Allen signs on Bikes and BART

BART Director Bob Allen of Livermore inaugurated the transit district's new bicycle locker program this week by accepting the first locker key to one of 648 new water-tight lockers. Allen, a noted fiscal conservative in Bay Area Rapid Transit District affairs, took advantage of the district's $5 inaugural discount.

The fully enclosed lockers may be rented for $5 per month for a three-month minimum; $50 buys a year's space. But those signing up for the program before May 1 get a $5 discount. Allen, also a bike enthusiast, takes the AC Transit District's feeder bus from his home in Livermore to the Bay Fair Station, then BART's his way to the Oakland West station where he hops on his bike for the last leg to work at his Southern Pacific office. The district paid some $23,000 for the lockers, with the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration adding $93,500. If all spaces are rented, the district will bring in $33,000 yearly to offset the program's maintenance costs. The lockers have been installed at all but the system's downtown subway stations. More lockers may be added if the demand warrants expansion. The lockers augment more than 1,300 bike racks throughout the system.

Overhead funds assured, now the race is on LIVERMORE — The long-sought official notification of a $1.5 million federal grant to construct a First Street overhead arrived in city hall this week.

City officials had been waiting since the news was announced to the press Dec. 28 by Congressman Pete Stark's office. Since then several calls to the Economic Development Administration (EDA) failed to pinpoint when the grant would become effective.

A requirement that work on the project be started within 90 days of grant notification caused some concern to local officials.

"The grant is dated Jan. 18," said administrative intern Barbara Hemphill, "but we only got it Feb. 2." Purpose of the grant, authorized under the Public Works Employment Act, is to get people back to work as soon as possible. If not started within 90 days the project's funding could be withdrawn.

Hemphill called EDA representative Hugh Taylor in Oakland for reassurance the 90 day period would not start until Feb. 2, rather than the 18th.

"He said EDA got a lot of complaints, that all the grants were dated the 18th," she said, noting approval of the Feb. 2 start date which would require work to begin by May 2.

Public Works Director Dan Lee said the delay may have been a blessing in disguise.

"If we had received the notice 30 days ago that much time would be gone from our 90 days," he said. "Even though the official word had not been received we knew from the press that it was coming and started preparing for it."

DeLeuw Cather and Company, the firm which worked on the railroad relocation project, has already started design work on the overhead which will eliminate what the state considers two dangerous railroad crossings, said Lee.

Talks have also begun with CALTRANS to design approaches to the overhead, he added, and city staff has begun survey work and soils investigations.

Calling it a "tight schedule," Lee said he thought the 90 day deadline would be met and the project should be completed in 18 months. He estimated the road might be open for traffic in 12 months.

"We're happy about it," said Lee. "It will be a great asset to the traveling public."

Bidding will be in two stages, said Lee. First would be the structure, to allow work startup by the 90 day deadline. Second would be bidding for the approach work.

Hemphill said an acceptance form, signed by City Manager Bill Parness and City Clerk Dorothy Hock, must be in the mail by today.

Another pool cools it to save natural gas

Pleasanton will close its outdoor swimming pool at Amador Community Park today and reduce heating in all city recreation facilities to 65 degrees in an effort to conserve natural gas.

The city is the second recreation agency to close its pool. Valley Community Services District closed its outdoor pool at Dublin High School late Tuesday after hearing about a Public Utilities Commission edict demanding a cutback on pool heating.

The PUC wants demand for natural gas in California reduced by 5 billion cubic feet over the next 30 days so that freezing eastern regions of the country can have the gas.

The closings come at a time when AAU swimmers are in daily practices for a national meet in Canton, Ohio, April 6-9. The pool closings are temporary until the East warms up, but a few weeks missed practice can hurt local nationally ranked swimmers, say their coaches.

The high school swimming season is just starting, too. San Ramon High School officials said their pool will shut down today and the only other pool in that school district, California High School, has been closed because the district does not have enough money to run it for a full season.

Livermore Area Recreation and Park District is waiting for official word in writing to see just what the gas conservation order entails. The district's May Nissen pool is open and so are the two school district pools at Livermore and Granada high schools.

Amador High School has adopted a wait-and-see attitude about closing its pool. Mike Ananos, in charge of buildings and grounds, said it takes a long time to heat up the pool and he wants to see exactly what is expected in the order. The local AAU team uses the pool in addition to the high school swimmers.

Half-million to study three sewer ideas

LIVERMORE — Valley officials Wednesday night signed a $564,000 contract to study three wastewater disposal alternatives and later agreed to select a final project by March 31.

CH2M Hill engineers of San Francisco will report March 25 on the three proposals. They call for export pipelines to dump treated sewage either in Suisun Bay or outfalls in north or south San Francisco Bay.

The half-million dollar contract includes design for the common elements to all three plans. It does not include design costs for the pipeline or other disposal methods selected, which could add more than $1 million to the cost, one company official said yesterday.

The Valley is currently prohibited from adding new hookups to sewer plants until it stops dumping sewage in Alameda Creek, where it flows downstream and pollutes Fremont's fresh water supplies.

The pipeline concept down Niles Canyon, to an outfall north of the Dumbarton

Bridge, may be ruled out eventually because the pipe's path would be extremely erratic due to natural barriers, an engineer said yesterday.

The Suisun Bay alternative might be impossible to construct due to time constraints imposed by state funding and election deadlines, the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) was told Wednesday.

The only remaining plan is the original one, which voters defeated Nov. 2. The 22-mile export line to north San Francisco Bay, now estimated at $36.7 million (it was $27 million in November), has been approved for 87.5 per cent government grant funding and meets time deadlines due to the considerable amount of engineering work already accomplished.

LAVWMA directors are looking at a May 31 revenue bond measure election for voter approval of approximately $10 million in local funds to begin construction on the project.

Students may be rerouted

PLEASANTON — Pleasanton Joint School District trustees Wednesday night discussed the prospect of diverting sixth graders from Amador-Jensen Estates to Harvest Park School next year.

Sixth through eighth graders from the Amador and Jensen areas now go to Pleasanton School, while K-5 students attend Alisal School.

The district reports that at one time sixth graders in the area had a choice of attending either Pleasanton or Harvest Park.

Harvest Park now takes sixth graders from Del Prado, Willow West, Amberwood, and Pleasanton Valley.

Bob Brown, newly-appointed summer school principal for the district, reported on the formation of a parent summer school task force. He said parent concerns revolve around double sessions, K-3 grades enrichment, staffing, and keeping a balanced program.

A general meeting of school advisory committee representatives is planned for Feb. 23.

Trustees also approved hiring of Woodward-Clyde Consultants to monitor slippage in the B wing at Pleasanton School. They will be paid $450 to monitor the problem over the next 12 months.

Walnut Grove School principal Tony Huff introduced members of his staff who outlined the three teaching methods in vogue at the school team teaching, open education, and fundamentalist.

Making the presentations were Sue Spiliotopoulos, Claudia Armstrong and Joanne Nix.

Trustees also received responses from legislators Dixon Arnette and Bill Lancaster, noting the districts opposition to SB 120, the California Nutritional Facilities Act.

The board also was advised it will receive an update on the classroom music program. Alisal School has been designated the "pilot" school for the program.

Amador graduate earns mention

PLEASANTON— Della Joyce Johnson, daughter of Peggy Johnson and the late Dr. Roger Johnson, has earned notice in the 1976 edition of Who's Who of American High School Students.

A June, 1976 graduate of Amador Valley High School, Miss Johnson was student parliamentarian. She is now a student at Chabot College and majoring in political science. She was recently named to the Dean's List at Chabot.

Don't have to be a parent to help

LIVERMORE — It's fun to be a school volunteer and work in the same classroom as your child — but it's even more fun NOT to be with your kid.

That's the conclusion of long-time volunteer Mary Lou Moore, whose youngest, Peggy, is a seventh grader now.

Mary Lou is volunteering at Arroyo Seco, a primary school. And she concludes:

"It's nice to finally work in a class where I don't have a child. Sometimes, to be fair, you're frighteningly horrible to your own child!"

The mother of four, Mrs. Moore has worked at Almond and East Avenue Schools as well as running Arroyo Seco's first volunteer program in the days when the PTA was asking parents to pitch in and help.

This year, volunteers are not only welcome, they're desperately needed. Seco is one of the schools receiving state Early Childhood Education (ECE) funds — on condition that they provide three adults in every classroom at all times.

Some of that quota is met by paid aides. But the rest must be achieved through volunteers — not only parents, but non-parents like Mrs. Moore.

With her kids getting older, what do non-parent volunteers like Mary Lou Moore get out of spending time in a classroom.

"I love working with the kids," she says. "They're so open. In the course of a day, they may have eight different adults in their classroom. And for them, each person is a refreshing change because each has something different."

She also likes the idea that she doesn't have to tread the fine line between favoring her own child and ignoring him or her.

Arlene Davis, the ECE program's volunteer coordinator, is hoping more non-parents will consider lending themselves to their neighborhood school, perhaps for an hour a week.

Mary Lou devotes that hour to helping with reading. Volunteers are needed not only in academic subjects but to help organize games during physical education time, pitch in with secretarial work or correct papers.

"A volunteer is part of a program," Arlene says. "They are written in and they are counted on."

Anyone, parent or non-parent, interested in finding out more about Arroyo Seco's "No Experience Necessary" job openings may call Arlene at 443-9189, or get in touch with their local school.

How to ask for cash

The Chabot College Office of Community Services will present a workshop on grantsmanship and proposal writing for community organizations on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 7 and 8, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Centennial Hall on Foothill Boulevard in Hayward.

Dale Flowers, who is the chief of the division of programs and services at the University of California, Santa Cruz, is the leader of the program. "This program," he said, "ought to be of special interest to project directors who are preparing to submit requests and proposals for funds to private or public entities."

The program is free to the public and is being co-sponsored by the City of Hayward Human Services Department and the South County Coalition of Community Programs.

Volunteer Bureau adds one

PLEASANTON — Phoebe Baxter has been appointed director of the Youth Volunteer Program by the Valley Volunteer Bureau.

A 10-year resident of Livermore active in many social agencies and public school programs, Mrs. Baxter began the half-time position Tuesday under direction of the Valley Volunteer Bureau board and executive director Betty Stallings.

"I think kids need meaningful activities, paid or unpaid. I would like to see agencies or groups make creative use of youth volunteers. It will help kids take a look at career possibilities, give them training and recommendations for future jobs," said Mrs. Baxter.

The youth volunteer position will focus on high school and junior high-age students in the Valley, but also be open to community college-age young people.

Most immediate need is to form an advisory group of adults and teenagers for the Youth Volunteer Program. Volunteers are also needed to help with clerical work, adult volunteers to provide transportation for young people taking part in the program.

The bureau is also in immediate need of a stencil typewriter, desk, and miscellaneous office equipment.

Students wishing more information on the Youth Volunteer Program should call the Volunteer Bureau during the weekday hours of 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Phone number is 462-3570. Offices are located upstairs at 287 Rose St.

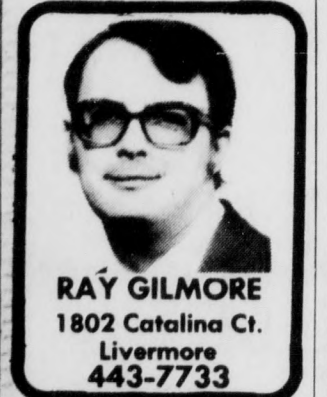

Mrs. Baxter, a 35-year old native of Seattle, Wash., previously initiated and taught in the alternative program at California High School in 1975.

She has served as a parent volunteer in public schools, was involved in the beginning of the Emergency Fund Center 10 years ago, and helped get a Coordinating Committee to Overcome Racial Division started.

Mrs. Baxter has a degree in sociology from the University of Washington and has taken social work courses at the UC Berkeley graduate school.

Geologist says ridge land erosion solvable

"From a geo-technical point of view, the problem is solvable," Carl Nipper, geologist for the proposed "Rancho Sunol Estates" told The Times this week.

Murray Levish, a licensed engineering-geologist and vice president of Burkland & Assoc. engineers, was the last to speak at Tuesday night's county planning commission meeting in Sunol. His reply to two hours of public protest over the project came after The Times' deadline.

Sunol residents told planning commissioners the project would erode already soft hill sides and increase mud slides in Kilkare Canyon.

Levish disagrees. He walked the site this week with county geologist Dave Carpenter for a detailed examination of the potential problems.

Local residents are "seeing erosion and steep slides draws," Levish argued. Underneath that "veneer" of mud lies hard rock.

Nipper's and partner Paul Heck's plans will include detailed road and grading maps approved by the county that will preclude the mud slides predicted by opponents.

The development, he said, "won't affect people downslope. We are cognizant of the potential for water slipping downhill. The problem is solvable."

The road system "will not eliminate completely" the problems of erosion and slope stability, he continued, "but it will reduce them." Roadways will act as dams to let the water slip down evenly.

A basic geological corollary holds that round hills go with soft rock, and that steep, rugged hills like those along the Kilkare Canyon indicate hard rock, he said.

The people who already have built homes up there "played Russian Roulette with nature and are losing," argued Levish. "Rancho Sunol Estates" would "reduce the hazard downstream."

"In the end, the decision will be a political and economic one," he said.

Valley dance team wins area contest

SAN RAMON — Jenni and Don Corder's hard work and talent paid off in $1000 first prize money after winning a 13 week long dance competition sponsored by Harlow's nightclub in Fremont.

The contest ended last Tuesday night.

The Corder's professional name is Salt and Pepper Productions. Besides performing throughout Contra Costa County, they teach disco dance classes at Shannon Park Community Center in Dublin.

There were 10 dance teams entered in the Harlow competition. They represented towns throughout the bay area.

Each team was allowed three and a half minutes to perform their routine. After 10 weeks of competition, there was one week of eliminations for the judges to choose quarter-finalists. Another week produced the semi-finalists. The last week was used to choose the winners.

Salt and Pepper Productions used over 70 different dance steps in their winning routine. They incorporated fire, flowers and scarves in their presentation. They wore their bicentennial costumes.

Jenni and Don claimed the entrants in the Harlow contest provided the toughest competition they had ever come up against.

Their winning routine may be viewed Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. on the KPIX Channel 5 Evening Show. They will also be entertaining at Harlow's Saturday night, Feb. 5.

Area septic tank okayed by county

Alameda County Bureau OAKLAND — John Foscalina won his battle for a septic tank permit on his land outside Livermore, and in the process set off a debate that may change the county's policy toward private sewage disposal systems.

Valley representative Valerie Raymond was joined this week by supervisors John George and Charles Santana in granting Foscalina's appeal. Boardmen Joseph Bort and Fred Cooper abstained.

But Raymond, who in her campaign claimed a proliferation of septic tanks in the Valley is damaging the underground water quality, won a work session from fellow supervisors to examine the county's overall policy.

"There ought to be some sort of rationale to this business of septic tanks," she said after yesterday's board meeting. "I feel very uncomfortable with septic tanks, yet the (present) situation seems very inequitable."

Current county ordinances deny septic tank permits and require connections to sewer lines if the lands in question are within 200 feet of existing sewer lines.

The board "never sees most of the requests for septic tanks," Raymond said, because the properties are more than 200 feet from a line. If health department criteria are met, the permit is granted automatically.

The system is "inequitable," according to Raymond, because only a few of the septic tank applications must pass the board of supervisors' muster. "Proliferation" continues, while a few land owners are penalized.

The board will hold an open work session on the afternoon of March 1.

New bus shelters

If the rain ever falls, bus riders along Murrieta Boulevard will soon have three shelters similar to this one in front of Sandia Laboratory. Recent city council approval paved the way for two shelters at the Stanley Boulevard intersection, to be built in the next week or two. Another shelter at the intersection with Holmes Street may be delayed pending negotiations with a property owner, according to BART officials. The shelters are aluminum, five feet deep and 12 feet wide, and include tinted glass.

Dublin chamber invites maid contest hopefuls

DUBLIN — Applications are being accepted by the Dublin Chamber of Commerce for entrants in the Maid of Dublin contest.

March 21 is the deadline for filing.

According to the official chamber application form, some of the rules are: "The contestant must have been a resident of Dublin - Alameda County or San Ramon - Contra Costa County continuously since Jan. 1, 1976. She must have been a California resident since Aug. 1, 1975."

The contestant must be single, never been married, pregnant or arrested for drug abuse or intoxication.

A Dublin contestant's age on Aug. 1, 1977 shall not be less than 17 or more than 25 years. San Ramon contestant's age on Aug. 1, 1977 shall not be less than 17 years or more than 23 years.

In the previous and present year, a solid B average must be maintained in all classes enrolled.

The contestant will be judged on beauty of face and figure, poise and personality.

All contestants are required to attend all meetings called by the Maid Contestants' Chairman. These include various briefings and classes in self-improvement and finishing school activities. Failure to comply with this rule may result in disqualification.

Other rules, regulations and qualifications are attached to the official entrant application being distributed by the Dublin

Chamber of Commerce, 7996 Amador Valley Blvd., Dublin.

The board will hold an open work session on the afternoon of March 1.

Mardi Gras: The goal is still the same

Festive triumph for King Tony Macchiano and Queen Corrine Mavridis was coronation at the 1976 Mardi Gras Ball. Tickets to this year's ball are now on sale through Lori Barry at 4603 Sierrawood Lane, Pleasanton.

The Juniors have served the community well, says their eleven-year record

The Juniors, who are they?

This is a question asked not only by the Pleasanton community but by people in communities all over California and the United States.

The Pleasanton Junior Women's Club is sponsored by the Pleasanton Women's Club, both of which are affiliated with the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Object of the junior membership clubs is to offer women ages 18 to 35 years the opportunity to serve their community, develop leadership abilities, further personal growth, and foster friendships.

The Pleasanton Junior Women's Club was founded in 1966 by Sharon McKinnon, and can boast many accomplishments during its existence.

The club commenced with only 18 members who immediately pledged $500 to the Valley Memorial Hospital Fund, and exceeded their goal that first year. Since then, Junior "successes" have included annual services such as an Eye and Ear Clinic, Christmas Basket Program, Safety Town for children, a swimming program for handicapped children, Fun Day for children of the Komandorski Village, and the popular Mardi Gras activities.

The Juniors volunteer as drivers for the bus for senior citizens in Pleasanton, as assistants at Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center, friendly visitors to patients at the Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital and comatose patients at Fairmont Hospital in Oakland. Club members gave the Valley Volunteer Bureau a head-start with $150 and publicity assistance, as well as help cleaning and restoring its office.

The Juniors raised $2,000 last year for Olympic-hopeful Diane Dunbar of Pleasanton, and spearheaded a drive among city organizations to raise money for the purchase of the Jaws of Life tool for fire department rescue work. A donation of $14,000 from the Juniors last year has helped launch renovation of the Amador High School Auditorium.

Who are the Juniors? A group of active, hard-working young women who care about their community, and an invaluable Pleasanton resource.

CLOTHES TREE &illy dilly

One of the staunchest supporters of this year's Monte Carlo Nite and Mardi Gras Ball, Pleasanton's biggest social and charitable events, is a lady who swept the town off its feet last year — 1976 Mardi Gras Queen Corrine Mavridis.

"If they asked me, I'd do it all over again," exclaims Corrine of the three exhausting months of non-stop fund-raising she managed with such grace last year. "I'm delighted with this year's new idea because more people will work one night, than a few people many nights."

In her year as Queen, Corrine waved to fans from a perch of honor in the Good Times Parade, judged homecoming floats at Amador Valley High School, and judged the beard-growing contest during Pleasanton Daze. As the last Queen since the sponsoring Pleasanton Juniors changed the concept of the Mardi Gras to include competing clubs rather than individuals, Corrine may "just reign forever."

In the meantime, however, the regal Corrine has joined the ranks of the Soroptimist Club of Pleasanton which will participate in the Monte Carlo Nite Saturday, Feb. 5 at the fairgrounds Exhibition Hall (8 p.m. to 1 a.m.) with a booth similar to one which proved very popular at last year's event — Burst a balloon with a dart and you win a prize! "It was so popular, I think, because it doesn't require that much skill," she confesses.

Twenty-five community service clubs will entice the public to spend small change for a good cause with booths that include body-painting, handwriting analysis, Native American games, Wheel of Fortune, Bingo, portrait sketches, blind bean bag toss, Keno and a kissing corner. The Pleasanton Juniors will host a variety of casino games and liquor concessions, offering a packet of "funny money" to get things rolling with the $3 per person admission.

When the money changes hands, the community benefits. The Rotary Club's Wheel of Fortune will raise funds for the Pleasanton Emergency Fund and educational scholarships. The Soroptimists balloon-bursting will bring in funds for park benches at BART bus stops downtown. The YMCA's Indian games will launch the Y-Pals program for fatherless boys. Poker darts tossed at the American Little League booth will finance safety improvements at the baseball field on Hopyard Road.

Civitan's pie toss game will fund a special olympics for the handicapped. Spin art at the Pleasanton Art League's corner will fill the corner of the Cultural Arts Center and provide art scholarships. Ring toss will round up money for the Pleasanton Beep Baseball team for the blind.

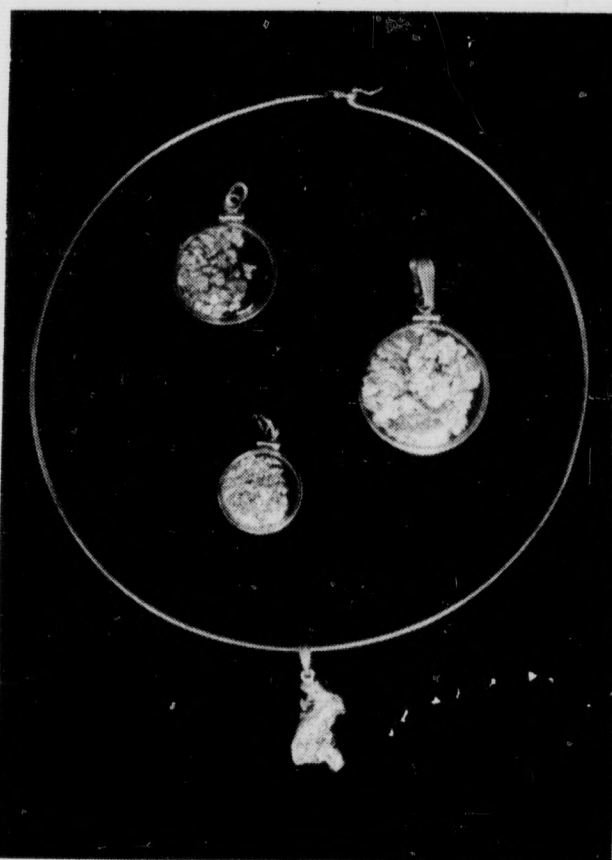

Other equally worthy causes are the Pleasanton Girls Soccer Association, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, the Pleasanton Department of Human Resources, V.I.P.'s, Valley Volunteer Bureau, Hill 'n Dale Preschool, AAU Swim Team, American Association of University Women, Alameda County Association for the Mentally Retarded, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, Children's Home Society, Hotline, Jaycees, Monarchs, Girl Scouts and National Little League.

The club that earns the biggest bankroll will reign at the Mardi Gras Ball Feb. 19 at Castlewood Country, as individual kings and queens have reigned in the past.

This is the third year of Mardi Gras involvement for Corrine Mavridis, and the sixth year for the sponsoring Pleasanton Junior Women's Club.

A field of candidates together raised $6,000 in the first Mardi Gras effort which was used to lease two vans to transport senior citizens about town. King and queen in 1972 were Gene O'Brien and Renee Spiliotopoulos. King Brad Hurst and Queen Helen Hertl were among candidates who raised $13,000 in the 1973 Mardi Gras to expand the services of the Tri-Valley Health Care Center, and sponsor Jim Ellis as a youth counselor.

Revenue sharing debated

Tom McCormick will discuss revenue sharing at the Tuesday, Feb. 8 meeting of the Commission on the Status of Women. The meeting will convene at 7:30 p.m. at the County Schools Building, 685 A. Street in Hayward, Room 46.

At the last meeting of the Commission Pat Loomis, administrator of Berkeley Women's Center and representative of Alameda County Community Women's Alliance, outlined a brief history of the revenue sharing funds. Ms. Loomis pointed out that about 120 agencies in Alameda County are presently funded by revenue which sharing, was introduced to the area in 1973.

Allocation of the funds is highly controversial, she emphasized, adding that $11 to 12 million each year comes to the "Community people resent the way property tax and community services have been pitted against each other," she said, referring to the Revenue Sharing Board's recommendations that agencies would all receive the same level of funding, while some would be terminated.

V.F.W.

The Livermore Valley V.F.W. Auxiliary 7265 will plan their annual birthday party at the Wednesday, Feb. 9 meeting at the Veterans Memorial Building.

"Women's community agencies are also complaining about the lack of seriousness with which the County sees their agencies," Ms. Loomis declared. "They feel they should be funded by sources other than revenue sharing because they do perform a service."

Ms. Loomis asked the Commission to involve themselves with the revenue sharing and take particular interest in the funding of women's programs to see that they do not relegate women's needs to a low priority.

Ms. Anderson, who has presented this topic to various groups, says it is impossible to be a happy person without first accepting yourself as a worthwhile human being. Most personal problems are rooted in a lack of self-esteem.

I.O.O.F.

The Pleasanton Odd Fellows Lodge Number 225 and the Rebekah Lodge Number 198 will hold a joint installation of officers Saturday, Feb. 5 at 8 p.m. in the Odd Fellows Temple, 328 St. Mary Street.

Club of the week

Scouts turn 67!

Wolf Cub Scout Mike Campos stopped in at Merwyn's to see the department store's "Salute to Scout Week" display. Mike lives in Dublin and is a member of Pack 49.

This month marks the 67th year of Scouting in the United States. The Boy Scout was movement was founded in Great Britain in 1907 by Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who firmly believed in the slogan, "Do a good turn daily." A good turn done by a British Boy Scout for a Chicago publisher resulted in Scouting being brought to America.

Over 50 million men, boys, women and girls have joined Scouts, and programs have sprouted in 69 countries. In every country, the purpose of Scouting is the same — to build character, promote good citizenship, improve physical fitness, develop skills and provide service to others.

For the first time in its history, Boy Scouts of America will have a new communicative name. The organization selected the title Scouting/USA to more accurately reflect its geographical location and the composition of its membership. Any boy from 8 to 18 years of age can become a member of Scouting/USA in a program designed for his age level. The organization has three programs: Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting and Exploring, a program for teenage boys and girls.

A variety of activities are scheduled in the Twin Valley District celebrating Scout Anniversary Month. Displays of projects and photographs will be in local schools, churches, libraries and shopping centers. Also planned is a membership drive. Valley membership currently totals 1834, plus the 600 adult volunteers who provide leadership for the program.

Ranch & city

The report carried in this newspaper on Wednesday detailing the attempt by ranchers to organize themselves in the face of new environmental restraints, higher property taxes and discouragements natural and economic, is a challenge that concerns each one of us.

The suburban home owner and urban consumer would be among those moaning the loudest should much of this Valley's prime ranch land be abandoned to taxes, to parks or to God.

Some 300,000 acres maintained throughout this basin and its ridges for active, profitable agriculture is 300,000 acres preserved for the visual enjoyment of those whose home here is made valuable, and pleasurable, by that expanse of "open space." It is open space maintained without our taxes and without much of the "urban vandalism" which becomes a part of all major parks in these rural climes.

Neither can the productivity of this soil be overlooked in reckoning the cost to consumers of preserving their lifestyle here. Many of us can remember when we purchased fresh tomatoes from the fields that are now paved over with suburbia's crunch. Those agricultural lands still productive, still feeding thousands of head of cattle are a vital element in holding down our food costs.

Yes, we understand that "the environment must be protected" and yes, we acknowledge that "ranchers can be damned tough to deal with some times." They are tough because the job is tough, the land sometimes unyielding ... as it is in the face of this killing drought. They are tough because they are often the last champions of free enterprise, the principle that "Americans do best when they do for themselves."

What is needed are public representatives and environmental defenders who are just as tough, just as enlightened in their quest as the rancher has been in his ... for three generations and more.

But what we need most of all is that they learn to work together ... county supervisor and city planner and rancher and environmentalist ... bringing this 600 - square-mile expanse to its "highest and best use." Surely there are few uses more urgent than the production of food.

The Mardi Gras

One idea, sustained by one group of young women and embellished with the participation of thousands of others over the years, has produced the fantastic record that belongs now to Pleasanton Juniors and their Mardi Gras.

In just five years, and five campaigns, the Mardi Gras venture has raised over sixty three thousand dollars! And that is the net profit free of any expense tied to those annual fund - raisers.

That money has been directed totally to community needs ... senior citizen buses in both Livermore and Pleasanton, dollars to keep alive the Tri Valley Health Center, money for park benches, for an auditorium, for a very special youth counselor.

The fact that Mardi Gras has also been a fun thing for so many participants is simply a plus to the long list of programs aided, and often salvaged, by the careful distribution of those funds.

The 1977 Mardi Gras will be a different kind of program, toned down in part because the Pleasanton Junior Women found "it left us with no time for the other civic and charitable works we want to undertake." So there will be no long list of fund - raising ventures this year.

There will however be the "Monte Carlo Night" ... set for Saturday evening of this week at the Fairgrounds Exhibition Hall in Pleasanton. It is an evening we heartily recommend ... for good fun, for community fellowship, and for the knowledge that all of the money raised that night will be used throughout the year to help the needy, the youth and the senior citizen ... the people who live in our town.

End of the GOP?

Is the Republican Party finished as one of two top contenders for this nation's leadership?

We can't speak for the nation, but if this Valley is any indication, then the Grand Old Party may be older than grander.

Where once the rural reaches from Livermore to San Ramon were bastions of Republicanism, a choice that prevailed even through the early stages of our suburbanization, in recent years there has been a steady erosion of that GOP stronghold.

In registration figures compiled by the Secretary of State as of October, 1976, the ranks of Republican faithful continue to show the decline that first became evident following Richard Nixon's shocking departure from office.

In September of 197, Pleasanton clung to that ranking as "one of the last bastions of Republicanism in Alameda County." The registration totals favored the GOP, 6020 to 5841. Livermore — which had begun its swing some years before — favored Democratic registrations by less than 2000 over Republican faithful. In October of 1976, Livermore's Democratic edge had climbed to almost 3500, and Pleasanton had slipped into the Demo ranks by an 800 margin.

In Contra Costa County's fifth supervisorial district (including San Ramon Valley) the 1976 registration totals hold close to the same 63 percent held by Democrats 13 years ago ... but that margin in actual voters has grown from less than 300 to almost 23,000 in favor of the Democrats, as eastern Contra Costa County matched its own growth with that of Democratic Party popularity.

You might read into these figures what you will, but one fact stands out as a national benchmark: If Republicanism cannot survive in these suburban - rural enclaves, then where can it survive?

Perhaps more to the point is this thought: What must Republicans do to bring their party back in touch with the people, and into meaningful balance for our "two party system"?

FOCUS/Communications

Peer pressure

Often overlooked in the rush to pin fault on segments of the student population and parents are the influences and pressures on the pre-teen, teenager and "mom and dad."

When we take time to trace back to the roots of these influences and pressures, we oftentimes find communications at the base.

One of the weak points of our modern day communications systems is the tendency to take the opinions of a handful and present them as being indicative of the entire peer group.

For example, one might surmise there is a "drug culture" afloat in this Valley that ensnares a majority of young people. You could also conclude that "teachers are out for every dam penny they can get and the kids' education be damned."

Or ... "public officials, from the school board to the council, are out for their own selfish interests and don't give a hoot about public service."

It would seem that certain segments of the population are taking a bad rap.

We cannot speak for the council members and commissioners, that not being our "beat." But in the realm of schools, the kids and their parents are not being dealt with fairly.

A quick review of the recent editions of newspapers serving the East Bay, including the ecclesiastical, would have us believe the San Ramon area is filled with drug-popping kids, that the curriculum of the various districts is outmoded and taught by some in a less - than - professional manner, and that "grade inflation" is rampant.

It is at least implied that all of 'em and dad do is sit at home uncaring of their offspring.

Somewhere along the line, the human touch has been lost. In the earnest rush to "be just one of the gang," be more humanistic in our approach to communications, the feelings and lives of the silent majority, those who don't present a large profile, have been trampled upon.

In our day-to-day contacts in the school districts, we find that parents most certainly care what their kids are doing, where they're doing it at and what is being accomplished.

But these supposed "routine" meetings and events are not "headline material." Have a few kids tell somebody about the "rampant drug culture" or "those boring teachers" and immediately it gets around ... no matter if there is a solid basis in fact or not.

There is a solution to all this and it's a very simple one. We live in a society that says we can register our concerns, be it about the schools, some part of the city or county.

The campaign "season" is underway in our school districts. There are a lot of candidates looking for parent feedback ... and a lot of school administrations that will be listening very rapidly.

So now is the time. You can be sure the media will be out in force.

And they must listen to the public as well as the candidate and the official. But it is the public, mom and dad, who we really must listen to.

Without their support, we can't get anywhere.

Letters to the Times

Women's anti-lib

To The Times:
Attention, Earl Waters:

It did my heart good to read your article "Not Funny" about women's lib and their assinine demands. It's about time the "Times" showed the other side. Most papers treat the libbers with velvet gloves because they're afraid of them, so it's good to read your thoughts.

Editor, The Times:

I am a resident of Livermore and I have two boys.

I would like to address myself to the unfair and uncompromising approach that the school board is taking with the teachers in contract negotiations. In the topic of binding arbitration the board refuses to allow a fair unbiased method of settling differences. The compromise that the board is suggesting is one in which the final decision in settling a difference ultimately falls back in the hands of the board. This would defeat the whole purpose of an arbitration board.

If the board plans to be fair with teachers they should have no fear of an unbiased arbitration team if necessary. If the board plans to "not" be fair with the teachers then the ultimate results of their unfairness to teachers should be examined and consideration be made for replacing such a board.

Ray Baird
Livermore

Summer school wages

Editor, The Times:

I teach third grade at Smith School. I have never taught summer school, and presently, I have no intentions of teaching summer school. ... I speak ... wanting to see justice prevail within the policies of this school district.

It is my understanding that this school district made a $600,000 profit on state summer school funds last year. ... it seems illogical, unjust and unreasonable to me to propose cutting teachers' summer school salaries.

... the only group of employees whose salaries are in question is the teachers. Will the superintendents, or the custodians, or the Ed Center support staff, or the principals or any other group of employees take a cut in pay because of the slow-down in the summer time? ...

... Although our democratic principles hold that the Board members are representatives of the public, in reality, they

A differing view

Editor, The Times:

I am a teacher in the Livermore School District who (as many people already know) is having difficulty recognizing a "teacher crisis." In recent letters to the editor it has been implied that binding arbitration, a change in the grievance procedure, etc., is directly related to the quality of our children's education. How? I have not heard or read a single example supporting this feeling among some teachers. What is wrong with the present system that supposedly obstructs quality education in Livermore?

I would like to know what is specifically wrong with the current grievance procedure; what injustices have been made to individual teachers that warrant change?

can act independently and unilaterally and possibly change educational policies and procedures arbitrarily. On this very question of summer school teacher pay, the Board could, indeed, set salaries on a fair and just level, in keeping with funding received from the State, or it could set teacher salaries at an unreasonable and unjust level.

Teachers want binding arbitration so that the meaning of the Rodda Act will be realized and that the Board as well as the teachers will be bound by law to follow the contract as agreed upon: A contract without binding arbitration leaves the employee right where he/she presently is on this teacher summer school pay question: hoping that reason and logic and fairness will prevail, but having little or no recourse should the Board act otherwise.

Found the town

The news out of Washington is that President Carter is preparing to send each and every American taxpayer fifty dollars. As expected, word of this windfall has set off a frenzy of excitement across the land. This newspaper once again got ahead of the news by sending a team of skilled news persons to interview a cross - section of Americans.

We began each of those interviews with the same question: "How do you intend to spend the fifty dollars that President Carter will soon be mailing to every taxpayer in the nation?"

From Herman T. Henpeck of Hacienda Village: "Would you mind lowering your voice, you idiot? I have been trying to keep word of this windfall from my sweet little wife, and I can do it if you newspaper people leave us alone."

Does this mean that Mr. Henpeck intends to keep that $50 tax rebate for himself?

"You bet I do! This will be my biggest cash flow since I copped the $3.50 refund paid by PG&E in 1963. And last month I grabbed off that mailing from Reader's Digest ... the one advising us we're in line for $25,000 in prizes. A man has to make his own good fortune in this world," Henpeck said, slyly.

We next posed the question of that $50 tax rebate to John Q. Suburbanite of Mortgage Town, Cal.

"Fifty bucks? FIFTY BUCKS???" Mr. Suburbanite kept saying, his eyes widening in a frightening display of nervousness. "I got two kids in college, a high schooler with a crush on a Corvette, a seventh grader who thinks he's the Joe Namath of junior football, and a wife who still can't understand why she can't dress like that divorced broad down the street ... AND YOU TALK TO ME ABOUT FIFTY BUCKS!"

Our reporter decided there was little value in pursuing the question with Mr. Suburbanite, particularly in that he seemed intent on rolling across his lawn, frothing at the mouth while screaming over and over ... "FIFTY BUCKS! They want to give me FIFTY BUCKS ..."

Barry T. Oldwater of Yesteryear, Arizona provided us with a somewhat different response.

"Nothing more than a Roosevelt plot to buy votes," Mr. Oldwater sputtered, adjusting his teeth to the task. "This whole New Deal thing is a farce ... all Communist inspired ..."

Our reporter hastened to advise Mr. Oldwater that it was Jimmy Carter who now occupied the White House, and no one really believed the fifty dollar refund was Communist inspired ...

"Left wing propaganda!" Barry Oldwater thundered. "Those Communists are all the same ... start with fifty dollar refunds, get the people to believing the government is their friend, then Whammo!"

Does Mr. Oldwater have some suggestion as to how the president might better spend the tax refund in order to improve the plight of needy Americans?

"Of course," he replied, firmly. "Spend it on bombers ... and rockets and missiles ... put more Americans to work on the one hand, and set up Commies on the other. Let your fifty bucks work both ways for you!" (Our next call was at the home of a distinguished nuclear scientist in Orinda Manor. But it was 1:30 in the afternoon and the little girl who answered the door insisted that "my mummy and daddy are very busy right now ... they're always busy week days from 1 until 2 ... except on Thursdays when daddy bowls.")

She insisted, however, on inquiring as to the nature of our call, and when informed of the fifty dollar question responded with an enthusiasm that was almost too much.

"Fifty big ones? You really mean it? Gee, with that kind of bread I could buy enough Big Girl bubble gum to last a whole month! Why, fifty bucks would more than double my allowance ... I mean, a person could pay up her ESP dues for a year ahead with that kind of cash!"

Was the little girl trying to tell us that a fifty dollar refund from the president was not going to make any big impact on their lives? Would she still refuse to disturb her parents with this important news?

"You kiddin' buster," little girl said, firmly. "My daddy pays me fifty bucks a month just to stand on this front porch — week days except Thursday — and beat off turkeys like you. Tell the president to apply that fifty of his against my next year's income tax ... a little girl has to think about things like that when she's in the higher income brackets."

And with that she opened another pack of Big Girl Bubble Gum and settled back for the final half - hour of her noon watch.

BILL CAUBLE

'Hay U'

A unique collection of problems, all of them man-made, has made Cal State Hayward an unattractive educational opportunity.

Inherent maladies, which the college itself cannot or will not correct, include an ear-popping trek up to the campus, incredible lack of certain student services, generally - accepted assumptions of an uninvolved commuter clientele, and an overall administrative direction aimed at keeping administrators employed.

"Hay U," as it is indifferently called, was for a time the only institution in the 19-college statewide system to lose enrollment each year. Changing economic conditions and lifestyles have since added other colleges to the list.

Cal State is located in the Hayward hills, with a fantastic view of the Bay from Frisco to Redwood City. Every road leads up.

That petrol - pirating pinnacle pursuit is absurd in any instance and especially distasteful now in light of the nergy crisis. This physical isolation from downtown Hayward begat the cliché "commuter campus." This game is played by any number of students all driving singly to the campus, quarantined in classrooms until commute lag symptoms disappear, followed by a mass exodus homeward. All extra-curricular services such as drama, sports, clubs or study are thus effectively ignored.

On-campus housing would be a reasonable alternative, but reason is crushed by expediency. All land at the hilltop campus is state-owned, and government will not enter the private housing market.

But why not sell off state land to private developers, since declining enrollment makes it unlikely new facilities will be erected?

I once sat in on a meeting with Cal State President Dr. Ellis McCune and two developers interested in such a proposal. The plan sounded great; a multi-dwelling unit with a central kitchen for four singles or couples. The builders had successfully constructed identical units at Cal State Chico, renting at about $100 per month, with great success.

After the presentation, McCune dolefully explained what he knew made the plan unworkable — the tangle of red tape to sell off state property was so complex, it would take years to get clearance.

Housing adjacent to the campus comes in two forms — Carlos Bee Residence Hall and Tanglewood Apartments. Rooms at the Bee are reasonable with meals included, but that morning walk uphill to class keeps tenants away. Tanglewood is a complex with tennis club, its own lagoon system and all the luxuries — just the thing for the struggling student.

Those of us that are night students learn survival fast due to the manner in which services are offered. This includes a bookstore, cafeteria, admissions and records office, and health services office — all closed. If a student can't get it on his own outside of class, he doesn't get it.

Administrators abound at Cal State. They don't do much else, just abound. Nearby Chabot (Community) College, with many less administrators, has a bigger student population and is constantly growing.

There are many serious institutional problems associated with Cal State Hayward, and they hit the student most. With an almost impenetrable job market and increasing competition, additional roadblocks should not be thrown into education's path.

Only a student knows the difficulties of trying to get an education today. I am weary of the laments of administrators entrenched in the rah-rah days of college, stern rule prevailing over several thousand Ricky Nelson types who got great jobs the day after graduation.

Cal State Hayward, and other similar problem-ridden institutions, are wasting precious resources under current administrations. Overhaul and a new direction are needed if Cal State is to compete against today's standards of excellence in education.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I received a letter from my brother, age 62, who lives in the Soviet Union. He was hospitalized for 35 days in an emergency hospital. It was determined that he had lung trouble in his right lung. It was filled with fluid which was removed. He was sent home and stayed in bed for 10 days and then went back to work as a teacher.

He continues to have pain in his right side. When he comes home from school he goes straight to bed. He is diagnosed as "wet pleurisy." He was told the only cure was medicine which is available in the United States.

My family doctor gave me a prescription for isoniazid.

Since it is not permitted to send medicine to the Soviet Union, I found a friend who is going for a visit there and will deliver it for me.

What is the cause and what is the cure? There has never been this type of illness in our family. My father died at the age of 90 and my uncle is still living in the old country at the age of 88. I'd appreciate it if you would answer my question as I am very concerned about my brother.

DEAR READER — The term "wet pleurisy" is not used in this country, but I assume from your description it must be wet pleurisy. This means an accumulation of fluid in the chest cavity surrounding the right lung. Fluid in that location or on the left side can be withdrawn with a needle which I presume is what you mean by being pulled out.

Fluid in the chest cavity may be caused by many different disorders including heart disease and even cancer of the lung. It can be associated with pleurisy — inflammation of the linings of the lung and chest cavity. The cause in some instances is never established.

Isoniazid is used to treat tuberculosis. I do not recommend taking it without close supervision of a doctor. It won't cure anything but tuberculosis and that could be the cause of your brother's illness. If so, he would again need careful supervision, not only for the isoniazid treatment but also of his progress in overcoming the disease. My guess is that your brother does not have tuberculosis. If he did I am sure the doctors in the Soviet Union would have treated him quite differently.

The soreness is no doubt from the pleurisy reaction and pleuritic pain is associated with muscle spasms involving the small muscles between the ribs. Binding the chest sometimes gives relief by preventing movement of the muscles. Heat applications may also help. The proper treatment, however, depends entirely upon what the underlying cause of fluid in the chest really is.

I am skeptical that there are any medicines we have here that are not available in the Soviet Union. Remember, the Soviet doctors can get medical information and medicines from most countries in the world and we have a fairly free flow of medical information worldwide.

To give you a better idea of how the lungs work I am sending you The Health Letter number 24, Keeping Your Lungs Fit. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. And, I hope your brother improves.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are generally lucky today in love, friendship or getting along with people, but money matters aren't included in this good fortune.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're sitting on top of the world in most endeavors today, but the flaw is you don't capitalize on your good fortune. You take too much for granted.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Joint ventures bring out the best in your ingenuity today, but avoid boasting about your prowess. Let others sing your praises.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In financial dealings today, let the other party set the price. If you call the shots, you could realize less than he would have offered.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The greatest rewards for you today come from what you do for others. Put your interests last.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Those who care about you are doing quite a bit in your behalf today. You may not recognize this now, but you'll appreciate it later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's essential to observe the line of demarcation between social and business situations. Like water and oil, they won't mix well today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can readily accomplish what you put your mind to today, provided you don't rely too heavily on others. Allies will be little more than dead weight.

Opening lead — 3 ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's North hand is a minimum raise. Just six high-card points, but there are three trumps to the queen and a five-card suit headed by the ace.

The raise worked out mighty well for North and South. Of course, North was decidedly nervous when his partner burst into Blackwood. Fortunately for everyone's peace of mind, or at least for North and South's peace of mind, South settled for six when North could not show a king. There was no problem in the play. South won the trump lead, played one more trump to pull the defenders' last trump, played ace and one club — showed his hand with the announcement, "I'll ruff my last club."

If North had merely responded with a negative two notrump, the chances are that the partnership would have stopped at just four spades. At least, it would require a decided overbid on someone's part to get past game after that start.

Ask the Jacobys

A Montana reader wants to know what the correct response to partner's two-spade opening bid is with:

♠ Qxxx ♠ Axxx ♠ Kxxx ♠ x
Just respond with three spades. You intend to bid beyond game later on, but want to make sure that you start by showing trump support.

Missionaries of rural Japan

Donel and Venda McLean

PLEASANTON — Donnel and Venda McLean, long-time missionaries in the mountainous regions of Japan and to the Aborigines of Taiwan, will be ministering in one service at Pleasanton Assembly of God, on Sunday, Feb. 6, at 11 a.m.

The church is located at 6656 Alisal St. Pastor W.T.R. Chapman invites anyone who wishes, to attend.

Epiphany donation

Allan Reubelt, painter, recently donated one of his landscape paintings to Dublin Presbyterian Church in honor of Epiphany, the traditional time of the arrival of the wise men with gifts for the Christ Child.

The pastor of Dublin Presbyterian, the Rev. Jim Griffes, stated that "Epiphany celebrates the wise men and the star and God's revelation of Himself to the whole world. The star drawing people from the whole world, the bringing of gifts."

Reubelt expresses his feelings in donating the painting. "They have a time during the worship service on Sunday, when you can express thank you, requests for prayer, sharing of feelings, of both joy and concern."

"We asked for a prayer when we made the decision to paint full time. And we had such a good year I'm sure it was aided by the prayers and faith of the congregation. And the donation of this painting is in a small way a thank you."

The painting is of golden hills and stately oaks, a scene typical of California. All of his work is acrylic paint on canvas, mostly landscapes of California, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. And all work is done in Allan's studio at home, some from photos taken on trips, mainly from memory, primarily landscape and seascape. Occasionally he does a still-life.

He has had a couple of one-man shows in Texas, in Dallas and Fort Worth, and is represented by top galleries.

A family man, Allan reports his wife Dawna does craft work, and his sons Scott and Keith have both won awards in art shows for their paintings.

Local schools not under NLRB

OAKLAND — The Rev. Thomas O'Shea, Education Director for the Oakland Diocese, has revealed that the recent National Labor Relations Board order requiring collective bargaining with parochial school teachers, will have no effect on St. Michael's School in Livermore, or any other parochial schools in the Bay Area.

He further stated that the ruling concerned only diocesan-owned high schools in the Los Angeles Diocese, and will be of no consequence to elementary schools or Catholic schools run by private religious communities.

The Los Angeles ruling was brought about at the request of the American Federation of Teachers., AFL-CIO, and is being appealed in the U.S. Circuit Court on the constitutional grounds of separation of church and state, and also protesting that the NLRB has no authority to make such a ruling because the teachers are working for a nonprofit, religious entity.

The NLRB is able to rule in cases where over $1 million annual revenues are taken in, or where interstate commerce has taken place, with goods and products worth more than $15,000. Such is the case with the Diocesan owned high schools so effected in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

The Bay Area Catholic high schools will not be covered by the ruling. The Oakland Diocese has 55 elementary schools in Alameda and Contra Costa Counties, which are parish owned and operated. There are 11 high schools. Most are owned and operated by private religious communities, and only one is Diocesan owned, Bishop O'Dowd High School in Oakland.

The 24-hour fast will take place this weekend, and coincides with their regular monthly fasting day. One member of the Dublin ward, Mrs. J. Robert Porter, wife of the Bishop, explained, "We believe in a true fast, you donate the money you don't use for food (three meals) to the church to be distributed to the poor."

The Rev. Edmond Cloutier of St. Augustine's Church in Pleasanton stated, "We've been praying since December for rain and for better weather, every Sunday and every day, especially on Sunday." Bishop Begin of the Oakland Diocese had requested it since December.

At Dublin Presbyterian Church, one of the committees meeting Wednesday evening decided to encourage the congregation for the coming month to pray for rain and to accept a discipline to conserve a water or fuel resource, according to the Rev. Jim Griffes.

He explained that they "will conserve resources, be careful of the use of resources, and in that way find some way to be helpful along with our prayers and concern."

Pokes top Mats, win title

By Marty James

Eddie King had good reason to cry. Especially after his Livermore Cowboys rallied to defeat cross-town rival Granada 33-19 for the East Bay Athletic League dual-meet wrestling title before a packed Pokes gym last night.

It marked the first time since 1972 that the Cowboys have won a wrestling championship. And King, ironically a graduate of Granada, couldn't have summed it up any better.

"I can finally sleep tonight," explained the tearful first-year coach of the Cowboys. "I was a little excited in the late goings."

Livermore, down by as much as nine points with eight matches to go, came from behind to tie it at 15-15, before going ahead at 21-19 on Daryl Hansen's close decision over Brett Dixon in the 177-pound class.

The Cowboys' Dave Farfan then proceeded to clinch it with a stunning pin over the Mats' Dave Baily which nearly brought the gym down.

Granada, the defending league champions for the past two years, started off going up 15-6 after five matches. Roy Davis gave the visitors a 9-3 advantage which they didn't give up until six matches later.

Davis, wrestling at 114-pounds, pinned Kirk

Allmon with .59 showing in the first round. Davis held a 4-0 advantage over the freshman before the pin.

Brett Nadeau, gave the Mats a nine-point advantage at 15-6 when he pinned the Cowboys' Russ Duguid at 1:39 into the first round.

The Cowboys tied it at 15-15 when 147-pounder Jeff Newton, up by as much as 11-3, held off the Mats' Monte Young, 13-11. Newton was awarded two points with six seconds left as Young was called for stalling.

Livermore's Dale Hansen put the hosts up 18-15 as he disposed of Scott Rychnovsky 8-6.

Granada then when ahead 19-18 behind Bill Freeman's 11-3 decision over Russ Wilson. Livermore's Bob Baird opened the scoring by defeating the Mats' Ward Dixon at 97 pounds.

Knox stays with LA, shuns Detroit offer

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Rams won a round Thursday but lost another.

On the positive side, head coach Chuck Knox said he has decided to remain the Rams coach and had ended talks with the Detroit Lions regarding their coaching job.

However, the Rams also discovered that assistant coach Leeman Bennett was named the No. 1 man of the Atlanta Falcons Thursday.

Knox, who has guided the Rams to four consecutive National Football League Western Conference titles said, "I have decided to stay with the Rams. The organization and the fans have helped me to enjoy thoroughly the last four years in Southern California."

"It would have been very difficult for me to leave the players and coaches here," Knox said. "They, along with Carroll Rosenbloom and Ram management, have combined to help create a winning tradition. I'm just happy things worked out the way they did."

Bennett, 38, a native of Paducah, Ky., and a former quarterback - defensive back under Blanton

Collier at the University of Kentucky, was named by newly appointed Falcons general manager Eddie LeBaron.

Bennett coached the Rams wide receivers last season and had been a St. Louis assistant at Detroit and St. Louis.

Knox's announcement followed reports that negotiations between Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom and William Clay Ford, owner of the Lions, had broken down because of player compensation sought by Rosenbloom.

Ford had flown last week to Los Angeles to confer with Rosenbloom about Knox, and the Rams owner at that time said he'd be willing to let the coach go to Detroit if the Rams received ample compensation in the deal.

Rosenbloom reportedly was not pleased with the players Detroit offered in exchange for Knox's services.

"I'm delighted that Chuck wants to stay," said Rosenbloom. "In my opinion he's the finest coach in the NFL. I believed that from the beginning or I would never have given him his chance in the first place."

Rosenbloom plucked

Knox from the obscurity of the Lions' assistant coaching ranks four years ago, and Knox since has produced four division titles. Each year, however, the Rams failed to make the Super Bowl as they lost in the playoffs.

Carol Dolsby and Linda Silva each had 17 points for the winners.

Patti Shirley canned 15 points for the Pokes, won 6-2. Lee Hardman added 12 points on six field goals.

SF signs Herndon

SAN FRANCISCO — Centerfielder Larry Herndon, one of the top rookies in the National League last season, has signed his 1977 contract, the San Francisco Giants announced Thursday.

The baseball team also announced the signing of infielder Tom Heintzelman who batted .277 with Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League last year.

Herndon batted .288 in 115 games with the Giants

For the Jazz, the cast was a bit different. True, Pete Maravich did score 23 points but second-year man James McElroy scored a career-high 26 points, including a tip-in with 22 seconds left that finished Golden State.

Forward Derre Dickey, out for nearly 20 games with a broken ankle, made an impressive return and dominated the Warriors' fourth-quarter statistics, leading with six points and five rebounds. Unfortunately, the Warriors were still forced to play with four forwards as Jamaal Wilkes missed last night's game with — guess what? — an ankle injury.

By halftime, New Orleans already had four players in double figures. With Maravich letting fly uncontrollably from the outside, James McElroy sneaking his way inside and E.C. Coleman and Nate Williams providing solid scoring up front the Jazz scored 34 points in the second quarter to take an 11-point halftime edge.

The southerners outscored Golden State 13-2 over the first three minutes of the period to gain their sizeable halftime advantage.

That rally seemed to dampen the Warriors' spirit, as the 6-3 McElroy was able to steal a Clifford Ray pass and sailed the length of the floor to stuff the ball with no Warrior within 40 feet.

Handicapped workshop tragedy

Two die, nine hurt as auto hits building

By CATHY TALLYN
Times Staff Writer

LAFAYETTE — Two persons were killed and nine others injured when a car plunged through the front of a workshop for the handicapped here Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff's deputies believe the driver of the car, William Marriott, 69, of 74 Robinson Ave., Pittsburg, suffered a heart attack and pressed the accelerator moments before he crashed into Futures Explored Inc., 3455 Golden Gate Way.

Marriott was listed in fair condition at John Muir Hospital, Walnut Creek.

Dead are Sylvia Turner, 32, of 3475 Moraga Blvd., Lafayette, of massive internal injuries; and Larry Williams, 31, of 4343 Clayton Road, Concord.

Both were affiliated with Futures Explored, police said.

Treated at John Muir Hospital and released were students Daniel Larkin, 26, Concord; Angela Gerace, 21, Alamo; Pamela Olson, 21, Walnut Creek; Ritchie Simenson, 21, Orinda; Lynne Rockvold, 27, Piedmont; Joan Heilbronn, 33, Orinda; and Karen Fortier, 24, Concord; and teacher Christine Mirschowetz, Lafayette.

Witnesses said Marriott's car was traveling about 40 miles an hour when it crashed into the brick building.

The car came to a stop against an inside wall, pinning one person. Fireman Henry Butler, one of the first persons on the scene, said two other persons lay unconscious near what had been the front doorway.

The front of the building was almost totally destroyed.

Witness Jim Cluson said he was sitting in the office of Lafayette Motors, 3470 Golden Gate Way, when it appeared Marriott, eastbound on Golden Gate, had a seizure, threw his arms into the air and stepped on both the brake and the accelerator.

When Marriott apparently took his foot off the brake, the car shot through the intersection of Golden Gate Way and Second Street and into Futures Explored, narrowly missing a parked car and pole, Cluson said.

John Mallory of Valhalla Automotive, located next door, said he first thought the crash was an explosion.

About 45 persons were at Futures Explored when the accident occurred at 12:30 p.m. The lunch break was about to begin.

The facility trains physically and emotionally handicapped persons to make and sell crafts and clothing.

Most participants in the rehabilitation program are in their 20s and 30s.

A heart attack may have caused an elderly Pittsburg driver, William Marriott, to lose control of his car when it crashed into Futures Explored Inc. in Lafayette yesterday afternoon.

President Carter tags CC state disaster zone

SAN FRANCISCO — It's official — President Carter has declared Contra Costa and 13 other California counties disaster areas.

Word of the designation was announced Wednesday by Cong. John McFall, D-Manteca, however Carter's staff was unable to confirm the action until Thursday.

State officials said the disaster declaration came because of damage to livestock, a major portion of the $510 million estimated lost by the state's agriculture industry.

The action, bringing to 37 the number of counties under disaster status also included nearby Alameda, Napa, San Mateo, and Solano counties.

Names in the news

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Figure skater Peggy Fleming and her husband, Dr. Greg Jenkins, are parents of an eight-pound, 10-ounce baby boy.

A spokeswoman for Stanford University Hospital said Wednesday that the baby, Andrew Thomas Jenkins, was born Sunday and is home with his parents in nearby Atherton. She said both mother and baby were fine.

A spokesman said Miss Fleming will return to professional skating after some time out. She won a gold medal at the 1968 Olympics in Grenoble, France, after winning five U.S. championships and three world titles. She turned professional after the 1968 Olympics.

AC seeks to know needs of the elderly

AC Transit is launching a planning program to identify the transportation needs of elderly and handicapped people in East Bay communities. The district work program, approved at a meeting of the board of directors will involve considerable input from people and organizations with knowledge and interest in transportation needs for the elderly and handicapped.

Agencies and paratransit companies which now provide or fund transportation service for elderly and handicapped will be asked to serve on a technical support committee. The advisory group will provide technical expertise and an operational perspective into the development of the program.

Interested persons who live or work within the district and representatives of Social Service agencies concerned with elderly and handicapped transportation will be invited to participate as Citizen Advisors. This "users" group will provide the consumers' viewpoint and help insure that all relevant concerns are addressed.

After needs are analyzed, alternatives will be developed and cost-benefits determined.

AC Transit management will hold regularly scheduled meetings with both groups. A consulting firm will be hired to survey the requirements of the elderly and handicapped in East Bay urban cities now paying property tax, ranging from San Pablo to Fremont.

To qualify for federal funds, the nation's transit systems must have an implementation program scheduled by Sept. 30, 1977, to improve transit services for the elderly and handicapped.

Speedup for local libraries

A modern, streamlined computerized card system will come to the Pleasanton and Dublin libraries soon.

The system uses bar encoded labels like the kind you see on cellophane bread wrappers at the supermarket. The bar codes match books to the cards of library users. When a book is checked out, a light pen is run over a patron's library card and the book he or she wishes to check out.

When the books are returned, the light pen is again run over the book labels and the record is cleared completely.

The new system will mean that overdue book reminders will be sent out faster and librarians at a branch library will know whether or not any other branch in the computerized system has a book a patron needs and whether it is on the shelf at that time.

The Centerville and Fremont Main libraries already have the system. Dublin and Pleasanton will get it in the next few months and within two years all county branches will have it.

Library conflict hearing

A public hearing on the proposed conflict of interest code for the Alameda County Public Library will be held at 4 p.m. Feb. 9 in the San Lorenzo Library, 395 Paseo Grande, San Lorenzo.

A copy of the tentative code is available for inspection at the Alameda County Library Business Office, 224 W. Winton Ave., Room 108, Hayward. Written comments concerning the tentative code will also be considered and may be presented at the hearing or may be addressed before the hearing to the business office at the above address.

Names in the news

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former Mayor Joseph Alioto's $12.5 million libel suit against the publisher of defunct Look magazine is "rapidly becoming intolerable," a U.S. District Court judge says.

Refusing Wednesday to dismiss the suit against Cowles Communications, Judge William Schwarzer urged both sides to take steps to make sure the case doesn't go past a fourth trial.

The suit stems from an article in Look's July 23, 1969, issue which Alioto has contended falsely alleged that he had Mafia ties.

The Bard is worth three units

A free college course in Shakespeare and His World will be offered at San Ramon High School on Monday nights from 7 to 10 starting Feb. 7.

The classes will meet in Room K-1, are sponsored by DVC and offer three units of credit. Registration may be made at the first sessions. Further information can be obtained from the instructor at 685-1230, ext. 209.
